

PROMISED

This is the story of two 17-year-old best friends, Seila and Chantra. They were recruited from their village to another country with promises of jobs and good pay. Upon arriving in the destination country, they were trafficked for forced marriage, sexually, physically, and psychologically abused, and forced into childbearing for a foreign family. Getting home and fighting for independence and justice is a matter of life and death.

TRAFFICKING INDICATORS:

- ▶ Job offers that seem too good to be true, offering extremely high pay or benefits for relatively low-skilled work.
- ▶ Vague job descriptions, unclear responsibilities, and missing details about the employer, location, and working conditions
- ▶ The employer or recruiter demands money from job seekers for recruitment, visa processing, or placement fees,
- ▶ Employers or recruiters who misrepresent the nature of the job, the working conditions, or the destination can be involved in human trafficking.
- ▶ Employers or recruiters who confiscate or withhold passports, identification documents, or visas can attempt to control and exploit workers.
- ▶ Job offers that include living and working in remote or isolated locations with no freedom of movement can be suspicious.
- ▶ International relocation promises a better life, but no clear information about the destination or living conditions exists.
- ▶ Contracts that lack essential information about wages, working hours, overtime pay, and other employment terms can be a sign of potential exploitation.
- ▶ Job offers that require workers to move to a country where they do not speak the language or understand the culture can be problematic.
- ▶ No choice of accommodation
- ▶ Offers that target minors for employment, especially in hazardous or inappropriate conditions
- ▶ Job's advertised in an area that is susceptible to trafficking
- ▶ Involves travel to another location, often to a different country, sometimes with other unknown persons
- ▶ Lacks substantial details about the recruitment agency or employer and the anticipated work, limited or no information about the destination or address of the workplace
- ▶ The company is using free email addresses (e.g., Gmail/Yahoo)
- ▶ The intermediary company pays all the transport expenses
- ▶ There is no requirement to speak a foreign language
- ▶ There is no contact person mentioned or/and any contact information about them

SOME SIGNS THAT SOMEONE COULD SOON BE (OR IS ALREADY) A VICTIM OF FORCED MARRIAGE:

- ▶ Running away from home
- ▶ A surprise engagement to a stranger you've not heard of before
- ▶ Not returning from a visit to another country
- ▶ Physical and Psychological Abuse
- ▶ Victims may be subjected to exorbitant recruitment fees or debt bondage, which they are forced to repay through labor.
- ▶ Language and Cultural Barriers make it challenging to seek help.
- ▶ Confiscation of Earnings
- ▶ Lack of Personal Documentation
- ▶ Underage Victims:
- ▶ Living and working in locked premises, with limited freedom of movement.
- ▶ Inadequate food and healthcare
- ▶ Restricted access to phones or the internet
- ▶ Victims are often subjected to threats, intimidation, and manipulation to keep them compliant and afraid to seek assistance.
